Stowe Landscape Gardens

Picnic Palladian Bridge

The National Trust first took ownership of Stowe Landscape Gardens in July 1989.

Stowe is one of the leading landscape gardens in Europe and is one of the most imitated eighteenth century estates in the world. Designed by the leading architects and gardeners of the time, Stowe is as much a political and social statement as it is a work of art. Over 40 temples and monuments are nestled amongst 250 acres of sculptured landscape, with stunning views across to lakes and valleys.

Rotunda

With a further 750 acres of surrounding deer park there is plenty to explore, whether as a gentle stroll or explorative ramble!

Onsite facilities include a Visitor Centre, a gift shop and tea-room.
