The askMK team

askMK Media Communications have, since 1999, brought the local traditions of innovation and community to the online world: through their professional and popular video productions. The Internet has transformed the way businesses, schools and charities function and askMK has guided many such organisations to make the best of these changes.

Now best known for the business networking site asMK.Net and the schools' site askBrango, the company is building and improving at a speed only matched by the city it calls home.
