

Traditional MILTON KEYNES

Looking ahead...

Stony Stratford's Folk on the Green

Sunday 13th June 2010

Colour photos courtesy of Kate Davies

'Only ever when the sun is shining bright and everyone is of extremely good mood and in good voice'

Folk on the Green is a friendly music day held every year since 1973 on Horsefair Green, Stony Stratford, featuring great music from bands local to Stony Stratford and a few places further afield.

Probably the longest-running free music festival in the country, its folk music is an important element, but all forms of music are represented - from indie acoustic to jazz, from blues to country rock.

There is always much swigging of wine and ale and the music goes on and on... from about midday until about 7pm.

(See www.folkonthegreen.org.uk)

Photo courtesy of Living Archive