

Discovering Places

The City's Parks

Parks Trust volunteers...

...helping us to look after our 4,500 acre garden!

All photos courtesy of The Parks Trust

How do you get a chance to:

- hug a goat?
- bash scrub?
- restore art works?

By becoming a volunteer with The Parks Trust!

Everyone knows how much effort it takes to look after even the smallest garden, but with over 4,500 acres, volunteers play a vital part in The Parks Trust's work. They get involved with just about everything that happens in the Parks including:

- supporting over 200 events,
- patrolling local parks to check on damage,

- carrying out wildlife surveys and practical conservation work such as coppicing, hedge-laying and pond maintenance.
- assisting in the staging of first class cricket matches.
- helping to deliver the Trust's education sessions.